This game is fun but also needlessly frustrating. Victories feel largely left to chance due to poor AI and a punishing combat system. My main issue, however, is that the game cannot be played offline and save data is stored on the company's servers as opposed to your local system. In summary, this is a cool Blur like racing game, especially for those of us on Linux since Blur isn't available to us at this point. If the aforementioned issues are fixed then I would even call this a great game.. I bought this game on a whim during the summer sale. It isn't for me. The gameplay is loose and isn't tight at all. It could use some fine tuning. The cars feel like they float. Maybe just bad physics in the game engine. The graphics are alright. I wasn't expecting superb AAA graphics, so I wasn't let down. However some of the special effects look bland and didn't provide the awesome factor especially when you wreck someone. I thought it'd be similar to Blur. Being arcadey and having power ups, buuuuu its in its own league. Best bought for kids entertainment and value. Since their expectations won't be so high lol. Overall I'd rate it a 60 out of 100.. while the handling and damage model is acceptable, rest of the game is not worth that money. tracks are boring, textures are terrible. There are translation errors and text overlapping in the menus. It feels like mobile game more. if it was 3x cheaper it would be acceptable i guess.. dont recommend. Nice game. Full of action, and relatively tough. I was playing the second level and had a hard time winning the race that I wondered whether I was playing against AI or online. The game works well on Linux (Fedora) and works also on AMD open source drivers with good performance. The game is well worth the price.
